GHSAA Now Among Top Five in National Safety Rankings

It's hard to believe we have been in school for a month and fall sports are well underway. I appreciate all you do to prepare and create opportunities for your students. Our schools have already submitted approximately 410,000 students for eligibility, including 2,000 transfers, 230 hardships, 99 magnet transfers and 111 home school students.

Georgia is a growing state and I expect we will have more eligible student-athletes than ever before.

I would like to recognize and thank the GHSAA Sports Medicine Advisory Council for their work over the past few years. Because of this committee and the approval of the State Executive Committee, we have seen our safety rankings move from 45th in the United States to the top five as assessed by the Korey Stringer Institute.

The April State Executive Committee meeting included by-laws to guide competitions with regard to Heat Illness which I believe will further benefit our ranking nationally. Of course, the greatest benefit is the safety of our students which must be our top priority.

We appreciate the work of our school personnel as well as our many officials associations in the implementation of these critical policies. Additionally, be sure to review and practice your Emergency Action Plans for all sports and facilities. It is critical that we are prepared for any emergencies that may arise.

Finally, make good sportsmanship a point of emphasis in all of your sports and activities. We continue to see an increase in "unsporting" acts and this deserves our full attention.

If you wish to see a list of ejections and fines for the past year, go here: <https://www.ghsa.net/ghsa-reports-fines-and-ejections-2022-2023> or click inside GHSAA, Financials on the GHSAA web site.

We have seen a slight increase in officials registration but we are not where we need to be. Officials report that the number one reason for leaving officiating is the behavior of spectators, with the behavior of coaches close behind.

Game managers need to be vigilant in confronting adverse behavior from fans and athletic directors and school administrations should set the tone for good sportsmanship with appropriate expectations from coaches. We can and must do better in this area.

Remember, our goal is to provide opportunities for our young people and extend the educational process to the fields, courts and stages. There is no better place to teach values and life skills that are essential for success later in life.

Thank you for all you do and please feel free to contact me or any GHSAA staff member if we can do anything for you.

– Dr. James R. Hines, Jr., Executive Director

GHSA Student Athlete Advisory Council Holds First Meeting

2023-24 GHSA Student Athlete Advisory Council Members

The 2023-24 GHSA Student-Athlete Advisory Council (SAAC) had its first meeting in Macon on August 22, 2023.

The council is made up of 20 student-athletes with a male and female representative from each class and four "at large" members. Applications were submitted last spring and scored by a panel based on answers to five questions.

The council's focus this year will be on how to improve sportsmanship in schools, ways to acknowledge coaches and players who set good examples, and on improving the Inspiration Award and Student Section contest.

The council will be posting on Instagram (@ghsa.saac) and X (formerly Twitter) (@athleteGhsa).

For more information on the SAAC, you can contact Penny Mitchell at penny@ghsa.net or Tanya Anderson at tanyaanderson@ghsa.net.

GHSA Salutes 2022-23 Cooperative Spirit Award Winners

Georgia's Electric Membership Cooperatives (EMCs) proudly sponsor the Georgia High School Association (GHSA) Cooperative Spirit Sportsmanship Award and are pleased to announce the 64 GHSA-member high schools that will receive this year's award. The award honors schools that demonstrated impeccable sportsmanship during the 2022-2023 school year.

"Congratulations to all of the region winners of the GHSA Cooperative Spirit Sportsmanship Award for 2022-2023," said Dr. Robin Hines, GHSA's executive director. "It is an honor for these member schools to be selected by their regions for this award. The characteristics of good sportsmanship are critical to the development of our young people as they transition into productive adults. The GHSA applauds our schools on this accomplishment and appreciates Georgia's EMCs for their support of this outstanding recognition program."

Since 2006, the GHSA and Georgia's EMCs have sponsored the Cooperative Spirit Sportsmanship Award which reinforces the GHSA philosophy: "Students, athletes, coaches, spectators and all others associated with high school activities programs should adhere to the fundamental values of respect, fairness, honesty and responsibility." Schools winning this award are thus honored for displaying exemplary sportsmanship during competition throughout the school year.

Student athletes, fellow students, school staff, parents and event spectators are recognized for the sportsmanship they display. The award is not only a school honor, but a community honor as well. The GHSA Region Secretaries select winners based upon sportsmanship demonstrated throughout the school year.

Cooperative Spirit Sportsmanship Awards are presented annually to the GHSA-member high schools in the 64 regions from the eight classifications by EMC representatives during fall athletic events and school assemblies.

Participation Continues Rebound Toward Pre-Pandemic Levels

INDIANAPOLIS, IN (August 30, 2023) — Participation in high school sports eclipsed 7.8 million in the 2022-23 school year, reflecting a sharp increase from the previous year as the NFHS completed its High School Athletics Participation Survey for a second time after the pandemic interrupted its collection of data.

A total of 7,857,969 participants competed in high school sports in 2022-23, an increase of nearly 240,000 and up more than three percent from 2021-22 totals. The total includes 4,529,789 boys and 3,328,180 girls, according to figures obtained from the 51 NFHS member state associations, which includes the District of Columbia.

This year's total marks the first upward movement in participation data since the all-time record of 7,980,886 in 2017-18, which was followed by the first decline in 30 years in 2018-19 and the two-year halt in data collection related to the pandemic.

"We were optimistic that the trends we saw in 2021-22 would continue, and our dreams were realized this past year as more and more students continued to pursue opportunities in education-based sports in our nation's schools," said Dr. Karissa Niehoff, NFHS chief executive officer.

"Perhaps the most encouraging news with this year's survey is that most every sport for boys and girls registered an increase from the previous year," continued Niehoff. "Certainly, that is the goal of these programs – to meet the needs of as many students as possible. We salute coaches, administrators and everyone involved in school-based sports the past few years for their efforts in keeping these programs alive."

The top 10 sports remained the same for both boys and girls, with boys tennis leapfrogging boys golf as the eighth-most popular sport, and girls basketball and girls competitive spirit each moving up a spot on the girls side. On the boys side, eight of the top ten sports registered increases in participation, while nine of the top ten sports on the girls side added participants.

One of the biggest increases in participation for boys and girls was in the sport of wrestling. Boys wrestling jumped 10 percent, adding nearly 25,000 participants, to more than 256,000 – the largest total since 258,208 in 2014-15.

Amazingly, the increase in girls wrestling was even larger with 17,473 additional participants – a massive 55-percent increase from 2021-22 – to reach a record total of 49,127. Just 10 years ago, there were fewer than 10,000 girls in high school wrestling. In addition, 36 states now offer separate state wrestling championships for girls.

Eleven-player football remained the most popular boys sport with the total climbing back over one million participants. The total of 1,028,761 participants marks an increase of 54,969 and 5.6 percent from the previous year. Not only did 11-player football top the one million mark, this year's increase was the first in the sport since 2013 and only the second increase since the all-time high of 1,112,303 in 2008-09. There also was a slight gain (34,935 to 35,301) in the number of boys in 6-, 8- and 9-player football.

The number of girls playing football – particularly flag football – continued to climb as well. A total of 20,875 girls participated in flag football in 2022-23 – an increase of 32 percent. Seven states now sponsor a state championship in girls flag and more are in the planning stages. The number of girls in 11-player football increased 18 percent with 3,654 participants.

Altogether, boys and girls participation in all versions of football increased from 1,028,976 to 1,089,880 – a jump of six percent.

On the girls side, outdoor track and field (+6.5%) and volleyball (+3.6%) remained in the top two spots, while basketball reclaimed the third position from soccer, jumping 3.5 percent and adding 12,896 participants. In addition, girls competitive spirit added 9,142 participants, an increase of 6.5 percent.

This year's survey also captured Esports participation data for the first time with 20,001 boys and 3,921 girls recorded. Eighteen states reported Esports participation, with Illinois and California leading the way, each with more than 3,000 participants.

Texas remained atop the list of state participation with 827,446, but California closed the gap in second adding 25,000 participants to climb to 787,697. New York is third with 356,803, followed by Illinois (335,801), Ohio (323,117), Pennsylvania (316,587), Florida (297,389), New Jersey (272,159), Michigan (268,070) and Minnesota (219,094), which climbed into the top 10 past Massachusetts.

The NFHS High School Athletics Participation Survey was started in 1971 and was compiled in its current form through the 2018-19 school year, resuming annually last year with the 2021-22 survey. The complete 2022-23 NFHS High School Athletics Participation Survey will be available soon on the NFHS website at www.nfhs.org.
